Description

A Louis XV period swivel office chair in molded, carved, and cream-lacquered walnut. The back, with its elegant violin-shaped curve, is adorned with finely carved stylized flowers and foliage. The armrests, with brown morocco leather cuffs, meet the whiplash-shaped supports. They terminate in an ingenious swivel seat, offering a rare feature for the period. The shaped apron is molded and carved with a beautiful flower in the center of each armrest and with stylized foliage on each upright. The chair rests on three cabriole legs ending in foliage. The contrast between the cream-lacquered wood and the brown morocco leather gives this chair an elegant appearance with supple and graceful lines. Louis XV period work
