Description

Authentic English mahogany shelf (dumbwaiters) from the time of George III, circa 1760, crafted in the elegant style of Thomas Chippendale. These exceptional serving shelves combine refined craftsmanship with a timeless aesthetic. The stepped trays feature beaded and fluted edges and rest on elegant vase-shaped turned columns, with a richly carved tripod base. The quality of the mahogany and its original patina underline the authentic character of this antique English piece. Ideal as a decorative shelf, china cabinet or display object in a classic interior, luxury boutique, hotel or lobby. A sought-after collector's item for lovers of English antiques and Chippendale furniture. Good antique condition, showing signs of wear, patina, marks and imperfections consistent with its age and use,
