Description

Pair of small Art Nouveau vases in turquoise glass and gilded brass. Charming pair of small Art Nouveau vases, crafted in turquoise blown glass, resting on elegant, finely openworked gilded brass mounts. The vases feature a slender form ending in a flared neck with a flowing, undulating rim, characteristic of the Art Nouveau aesthetic. The glass is delicately enhanced by polychrome enamel decoration with floral and plant motifs, while the richly worked gilded brass mounts are adorned with floral motifs and stylized scrolls. The combination of luminous turquoise glass and gilded mounts lends this set great decorative finesse and a charm typical of late XIXe and early XXe century production. Era: Art Nouveau, circa 1900. Materials: turquoise blown glass and gilded brass. Decor: enameled floral.
