Description

Interesting oil painting on copper plate, produced in the 18th century. A work of refined execution, characteristic of painting on a metal support, a technique particularly appreciated for the finesse of its details and the brilliance of its colors. The composition shows careful workmanship and a fine overall state of preservation, with the natural patina associated with its age. The copper support is sound and stable, with no notable deformation. Beautiful collector's and decorative piece, representative of 18th-century European pictorial production. With frame: 22cm x 27 cm
Copper: 17cm x 22 cm
