Description

Charles Chaplin 1825 1891 Portrait of Young Woman in Profile Oil on canvas signed lower left. A delicate feminine portrait characteristic of Charles Chaplin's work, depicting a young woman in profile in an attitude imbued with grace and serenity. The artist displays all his talent as a portraitist through a soft palette of pearly and pinkish tones, sublimating the delicacy of the features and skin tones. The supple, luminous touch, combined with a delicately blended background, creating an intimate atmosphere. The pink ribbon adorning the model's neck adds a note of understated elegance, while the quality of the modeling testifies to the painter's technical mastery. Presented in its elegant antique frame with Louis XVI knot decoration, this
