

Porcelain Baby From The Shipwreck Of Ca Mau (yongzheng Period, C. 1725)

450 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Porcelain

Description

Baby figurine in white porcelain with underglaze cobalt blue (only the bib is painted). In China, these statuettes were offered at weddings to wish the bride and groom numerous offspring. 174 of these figurines (including 24 damaged) were sold in Amsterdam in 2007 by Sotheby's. This one has been lightly cleaned, but deliberately not stripped of its barnacle shells in order to testify to its underwater origin. In very good condition, with no missing parts (particularly the fragile hands...). Height: 85 mm, weight: 145 g. Reference: (last four photos) Ng Dinh Chien, 2002 "The Ca Mau Shipwreck - 1723-1735", fig. 254, p. 187. Sotheby's, 1997: "Made in Imperial China", lots 812-832. Free secure shipment to France by Colissimo suivi. Others countries: please enquire. In order to see other objects:
