Description

Small Kodak Pocket box model 96 produced in the U.S. from 1896 to 1897. Two pull tabs adjust shutter speed and aperture. The shutter works correctly. The camera comes with its original Kodak bag, a 102 film box (without film) that offered 12 4x5cm shots and its (rare) original manual in French. The manual, divided into eight parts presents: loading the camera-obtaining clichés and with magnesium-loading reels-using the dry plate on glass-"we do the rest"(mythical slogan of the brand)-developing clichés and printing and turning proofs on Solio paper.
