Description

This fine Biedermeier portrait of a young woman was painted in 1847 by Austrian portraitist, draughtsman and photographer Carl Dietrich (1821 or 1823 - 1888). Austrian painter, draughtsman and photographer, he lived and worked in Graz until 1865. From that year onwards, he settled in Vienna and worked as a draughtsman, creating Biedermeier-style portraits for the nobility. His works are held at the LM Joanneum Museum in Graz and at the New St. Leonhard Gallery. Bibliography: artists' lexicons: by Saur; by Thieme/Becker; by Professor H. Fuchs. Inscription: signed and dated 1847 vertically on the right edge. On the back of the canvas, signature and inscription: "C. Dietrich Pinx (painted by), Gratz, July 20, 1847". Technique: oil on canvas, gilded period
