Description

A unique Gothic tabernacle from a French church - Early 19th centuryThis rare Gothic tabernacle, from a church in Montpellier, dates from the early 19th century. This richly carved pine piece features impressive architecture and is a remarkable example of French religious craftsmanship.Originally, this tabernacle was probably used to store the Blessed Sacrament. Removal of the original coat of paint fully reveals the character of the pine and the beauty of the Gothic details.With its unique history and imposing presence, this antique piece of ecclesiastical furniture is a real eye-catcher. It lends itself perfectly to the creation of display cases, bookcases or as a centerpiece in a classic, eclectic or modern interior.An exceptional and unique antique object, imbued with character,
