An interesting painting from the Neoclassical period, dating to the late 18th century, depicting the Holy Family. The Virgin is portrayed lovingly holding the Child, flanked by the figure of Saint Joseph in a meditative pose. The composition is set amidst evocative classical ruins, an iconographic element typical of Neoclassical culture, used to evoke the charm of the ancient world. The scene is characterized by a delicate, contemplative atmosphere and a pleasing chromatic harmony. The work is enhanced by an antique frame adapted and trimmed to fit the canvas, perfectly integrated into the whole and consistent with the taste of the era.
