seal bearing the Russian imperial arms with a double-headed eagle. This piece is a particularly moving testimony to the ties uniting members of the imperial family with their close entourage, and illustrates the customs of reward and recognition within the Romanov court. Document framed under glass. Condition in keeping with its age, with original folds, light wear and traces of time altering neither the reading nor the historical interest of the set. A choice piece for collectors of Russian imperial memorabilia, historical autographs and documents relating to the Romanov dynasty. dimensions letter 20.5x 32.5 cm
