Description

Academic Study of a Nun's Head, Florentine SchoolLate 18th - Early 19th CenturyPencil on handmade cotton paper.Dimensions: 38.5 × 53.5 cmLarge study depicting the head of a veiled nun. The inclined face and contemplative expression give the figure a quiet, meditative character, while the ample drapery surrounding the head occupies much of the composition.The drawing comes from a Florentine group of sheets including anatomical studies, notes and architectural drawings, formerly preserved within an old family connected to the city's cultural circles.Large sheet on handmade cotton paper, preserved in its original format.Good condition. Minor signs of age consistent with the period.
