Description

A refined early 20th century Georgian style pedestal stand, crafted in solid mahogany and exhibiting elegant classical proportions. The tall, tapering form is beautifully balanced, rising from a stepped plinth base to a moulded square top, making it an ideal accent piece within a living room, hallway, or interior setting. The rich mahogany displays a deep, warm tone, enhanced by careful restoration which has brought out the natural depth and character of the timber. Subtle decorative fretwork panels add a layer of visual interest, lending a touch of architectural detail without overwhelming the clean, classical lines. The gently tapering column form is particularly pleasing, giving the piece a sense of height and presence while maintaining a restrained elegance typical of Georgian
