Description

Raúl Milián Pons. Self-taught Cuban painter. Born in Havana on April 14, 1914. He is said to have started painting in 1950, a decade during which he also worked on decorating ceramic pieces, alongside other artists such as Portocarrero, Lam and Amelia, at the Santiago de las Vegas studio run by Juan Miguel Rodríguez de la Cruz. His models seem to be the artists of Formalism, New Figuration, North American Abstract Expressionism, the painting of Mark Tobey and Mark Rotho, the drawings of Wols and the work of earlier artists such as Henri Michaux, Paul Klee and Jean Dubuffet. Almost all his work is executed in black and colored inks on small-format, usually vertical, paper and cardboard, depicting heads, faces, figures, flowers, vases and abstractions. His images
