Description

A rare and evocative oil painting on cardboard by FRANCESCO GIOLI (1846-1922), a leading figure of the Tuscan Macchiaioli movement. The work depicts the artist together with his wife in a moment of quiet contemplation of the sea from the cliffs of Castiglioncello and bears witness to the painter's mature style, an artist deeply connected to the landscapes of the Livorno coast and his stays in Castiglioncello, one of the most important centers of Macchiaioli culture. On the verso is the handwritten inscription: "The painter Gioli and his wife on the beach at Castiglioncello." The work possesses an uncommon autobiographical value, as it directly portrays the painter and his wife Matilde Bartolommei, offering a rare glimpse into the artist's private life.
