Description

An elegant Swedish gateleg table in solid wood, dating from the late 19th century, combines rustic charm with handcrafted sophistication. Its oval pine top features an ice-blue faux-marble decoration, enhanced by delicate veins and bluish hues typical of Scandinavian decorative painting techniques of the period. The structure, in wood painted in pale blue and off-white tones, boasts turned legs and X-shaped crosspieces, characteristic of the Gustavian style and neoclassical influence in Sweden. Wear marks and cracks in the weathered paint testify to its authenticity and history, while its gigogne mechanism (extendable table) makes it both a practical and aesthetically pleasing piece. Perfect for an entrance hall, living room or dining room, this table embodies the balance between
