great detail in his compositions and the beautiful color of the sea, show an artist who knew the world of the sea well. Our painting is located and dated on the back "Le Tréport / 1905". We can indeed make out the Le Tréport jetty, with boats arriving or leaving the port in the distance. On April 7, 1900, Théodore Weber exhibited a painting at the Paris Salon entitled "Bateaux de pêche quittant le Tréport" (number 1351), which may be our painting. Theodore Weber's works are kept in numerous museums in France (Dieppe, Dijon and Nice), in England in several museums, and in Australia and Brazil too.
