Description

Jules Flandrin (1871-1947) - Landscape around Corenc Oil on panel depicting a hilly landscape in the Grenoble region, enlivened by a few dwellings nestled amid abundant vegetation. Jules Flandrin, an important figure in the École dauphinoise and a pupil of Gustave Moreau, here delivers a composition full of spontaneity, in which the generous material and subtle light sensitively convey the charm of Alpine landscapes. Panel oil on panel depicting a hilly landscape in the Grenoble region, animated by a few dwellings nestling amid abundant vegetation. This work testifies to the artist's attentive eye for nature and the Grenoble area, subjects he cherished throughout his career. Signed lower left. An old inscription on the reverse mentions "Corenc", helping to situate the
