Description

Goyard Travel Suitcase in Canvas and Leather Goyard, Paris - First Half of the 20th Century
Dimensions: 80 x 54 x 25 cm
Large Goyard travel suitcase in brown canvas with natural leather reinforcements and brass fittings.
The interior retains its original yellow moiré silk lining and retaining straps, reflecting the high-quality craftsmanship associated with the Parisian luxury house. This suitcase displays the understated elegance characteristic of early Goyard production. The combination of textured canvas, beautifully aged leather and the luminous silk-lined interior creates a particularly attractive visual contrast. The interior label bearing the historic 233 Rue Saint-Honoré, Paris address is an appealing period detail that enhances its authenticity and charm. Beyond its original purpose, this piece now serves equally well as a decorative object, whether placed at the foot of a bed, in a dressing room, on top of a trunk or as part of a refined travel-themed interior. Overall good condition with expected signs of age and use, including a few scuffs, stains and small abrasions to the canvas and leather. Structurally sound and highly decorative. Gallery's View

Vintage Goyard luggage possesses a character that is difficult to reproduce. Every mark and every trace of wear speaks of journeys taken and destinations long forgotten. This large suitcase still conveys the atmosphere of grand hotels, sleeping cars and international travel. Its rich patina, combined with the striking yellow silk interior, gives it a decorative presence that extends far beyond its original function.
