Description

Oil on panel "Un monde imaginaire" by Jean DratzIf Dratz is best known for his realistic landscapes, commercial illustrations and satirical caricatures, this work in particular highlights his rarer forays into the fantastic and surreal. It depicts a chaotic, dreamlike landscape teeming with strange sea creatures, skulls and hidden faces swirling around a central vortex that reveals a distant cityJean Pierre Gustave Dratz (1903-1967) was a versatile and prolific Belgian painter, illustrator, cartoonist and comic strip artist. Born in Mont-Saint-Guibert, he was the son and pupil of painter Constant DratzSigned in the lower right-hand cornerWork: 24 cm wide and 18 cm highFrame: 33.5 cm wide, 6 cm deep and 27 cm highBelgian surrealism between the wars
