Description

Pair of five-light gilt bronze candelabra Louis XVI style, 20th century work Dimensions: Height: 40 cm Width: 25 cm Elegant pair of five-light gilt bronze candelabra executed in the neoclassical taste during the 20th century. Each candelabrum features a finely balanced composition centered around a twisted shaft supporting a central candleholder, surrounded by four gracefully curved arms. The circular spreading base is decorated with radiating gadroons and stylized foliate motifs, enhancing the elegance of the design. The quality of the casting, the warm-toned gilt bronze finish, and the restrained decorative vocabulary allow these candelabra to blend effortlessly into both classical and contemporary interiors. Their proportions are particularly successful: substantial enough to create a strong decorative presence on a mantelpiece, console table, or dining table, while retaining a pleasing visual lightness through the refinement of their arms and overall silhouette. Presented in excellent condition. Gallery's View This pair stands out for the harmony of its proportions and its remarkable decorative presence. Light plays beautifully across the polished gilt bronze surfaces, while the flowing curves of the arms and the subtle relief of the ornamentation bring constant movement to the design. Elegant and versatile, these candelabra have the ability to instantly add warmth, refinement, and character to a mantelpiece, console, or formal dining setting.
