Description

Kolyach rug, from the great Sarough family, in perfect condition. This piece measures 157 cm wide by 273 cm long. Circa 1980, it is in perfect condition, hand-knotted in fine, very soft kork wool. A magnificent combination of pastel colors for a density of approximately 350,000 knots per M2. This rug features a wide field decorated with a floral trellis of roses embellished with a central medallion with two halberd-shaped pendants and four spandrels. The whole is encircled by a wide border, followed in parallel by two broadly decorated counter-borders, all in perfect condition. Our proposed model is a real flower garden, centered by a wide medallion set on a deep cream field and 1.5 cm thick, making it a very comfortable rug. The Sarough rug, the Ecbatana of antiquity, weaving place of some
