Description

An elegant sideboard lamp designed by Romeo Rega, one of the most celebrated figures in Italian design of the 1970s. The piece stands out for its refined geometric composition crafted from polished steel, brass, and plexiglass--iconic materials of the designer's work that perfectly embody the sophisticated taste of the era.The structure features an architectural base composed of overlapping rectangular elements that create striking plays of light and transparency. The lamp is completed by its original shade, a detail that is increasingly rare to find and particularly prized by collectors. The lamp is signed by Romeo Rega, with the signature present on the base. It is in good overall condition. The rectangular brass frame that adorns the Plexiglass shows natural oxidation that has developed over time and has
