Description

Discover this superb Roger Capron coffee table, an iconic creation of 1950s French design. This rare piece harmoniously combines the elegance of beech wood with the decorative richness of a top composed of glazed stoneware tiles. The tray is adorned with magnificent plant motifs in relief representing various Mediterranean species, such as rosemary, laurel and other plants inspired by the garrigue of Provence. Each tile reveals meticulous craftsmanship that testifies to the exceptional know-how developed in Capron's Vallauris workshops. Both a functional piece of furniture and a decorative work of art, this coffee table perfectly reflects the creative universe of Roger Capron, a key figure in 20th-century ceramics and design. His warm, natural aesthetic immediately brings character to a living room, reception area or collector's interior. The combination of solid wood and glazed ceramic creates a remarkable balance of robustness, authenticity and refinement. The plant reliefs offer a unique texture and visual depth that capture the eye from every angle. Installed in Vallauris since 1946, Roger Capron has greatly contributed to the influence of French ceramics thanks to his innovative and timeless creations. His workshop, which became one of the most renowned in the region, employed up to fifty specialized craftsmen. Still today, his creations are sought after by collectors and lovers of quality vintage furniture. Capron's work can be found in many prestigious collections and museums devoted to the decorative arts and ceramics. This coffee table is a perfect illustration of the meeting of craftsmanship and modern design that characterizes all of his work. It retains a beautiful original patina that underlines its authenticity and reinforces its vintage charm. Its overall condition is very satisfactory, with the usual marks of time for a piece of this era, without altering its beauty or use. His workshop signature is present and guarantees the authenticity of this iconic creation. Thanks to its generous dimensions, it easily finds its place in a contemporary, vintage or eclectic living room. Its sober lines particularly enhance the decorative richness of the ceramic top. This table is also a choice investment for lovers of signed furniture and post-war French design. Dimensions: Length 118.5 cm x Width 46 cm x Height 35 cm. Very good overall condition. Signature of the Capron workshop. A collector's piece full of character, ideal for adding an artistic, warm and authentic touch to your interior. A real favorite for fans of vintage design, art ceramics and iconic 20th-century furniture.
