Description

Discover this pair of small sellettes or sofa ends in gilded wrought iron, typical of the 1950s/1960s. They embody the timeless elegance and retro charm of this golden era for French design. Their design is inspired by the iconic guéridons of Henri Pouenat or René Prou. These designers left their mark on furniture history with pieces combining robustness and refinement. Here, the legs end in arrowheads, a signature that is both elegant and distinctive, bringing a touch of originality to these occasional tables. The painted glass top enhances their sophisticated character. Although there are a few accidents, such as scratches or irregularities, these imperfections only serve to emphasize their authenticity and history. It's important to note that the glass tops have been broken and some of the
