

Vintage Console Table By Vittorio Dassi, Italy, 1950

5 500 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Teak

Width : 161

Height : 105

Depth : 45

Description

This elegant mid-century Italian console table is attributed to Vittorio Dassi, showcasing refined proportions and beautifully judged materials typical of Italian design from the period. Crafted in solid teak, the piece combines architectural clarity with warm, understated luxury, making it a versatile addition to both contemporary and classic interiors. The console features six drawers, each fitted with original bronze handles, offering generous and practical storage while maintaining a clean, balanced façade. Below, a racked lower shelf adds both visual interest and functional display space, ideal for books, decorative objects, or curated accessories. The tapered legs terminate in bronze sabots, a subtle but distinctive detail that elevates the overall design and reflects Dassi's attention to finish and craftsmanship. Well

Dealer

The Furniture Rooms

Art Deco - Mid Century - Antiques

Mobile : 07799660323

Unit 51 Eldon Way Paddock Wood

Paddock Wood TN12 6BE

proportioned and visually light despite its scale, this console works equally well in a hallway, living room, or dining room, where its horizontal emphasis and fine detailing can be fully appreciated. Condition In excellent vintage condition, with light, sympathetic wear consistent with age. The piece has been carefully maintained, retaining its original character and finish. Dimensions Height: 105 cm Width: 161 cm Depth: 45 cm About Vittorio Dassi Vittorio Dassi was a leading figure in mid-century Italian furniture design, active primarily during the 1950s and 1960s. Known for his sophisticated use of fine timbers, elegant silhouettes, and discreet decorative details, Dassi's work bridges traditional Italian craftsmanship with modernist principles. His furniture is highly regarded for its timeless appeal and enduring quality, and original pieces are increasingly sought after by collectors and designers worldwide.