Description

An elegant French inkwell from the early 19th century, crafted from finely chiseled bronze and gilded with mercury, resting on a refined wooden base. The central element is embellished with a delicately modeled full-relief sculpture depicting a winged cherub holding a dart, a classic symbol of amorous and artistic inspiration. The composition is enhanced by two side inkwells and a square container, perfectly integrated into a harmonious structure decorated with neoclassical ornamental motifs. The warm, luminous gilding highlights the details of the craftsmanship, lending the object great refinement and prestige. The solid and elegant wooden base completes the ensemble, providing stability and a pleasing chromatic contrast with the gilded bronze. An object of great charm and quality,
