Description

A superb Japanese tansu-style cabinet made of wood with a beautiful patina, richly adorned with decorative brass fittings. The front is adorned with numerous finely crafted brass reinforcements and plates, as well as side handles and a large central medallion, giving the piece a character that is both functional and aesthetic. The interior reveals an ingenious layout consisting of drawers of various sizes, compartments, and shelves, as well as a drop-down panel serving as a writing surface, typical of traditional Japanese furniture. Japanese work, late 19th century. Very good overall condition, sound structure. Dimensions: height 130 cm, width 89 cm, depth 42 cm. A piece that is both decorative and functional, ideal for an eclectic, Asian, or contemporary interior.
