Description

Openwork bowl in polychrome earthenware, decorated with a landscape scene in the 18th-century styleElegant oval-shaped bowl resting on four small feet, made of earthenware with polychrome decoration in shades of green and purple. The openwork sides are adorned with central panels depicting a lively landscape in the style of 18th-century pastoral scenes, framed by delicately rendered plant motifs.The raised, scroll-shaped handles lend balance and refinement to the piece, while the finely executed decoration highlights its lightness. The quality of the openwork and the harmony of the colors give this object a particularly appealing decorative presence.This bowl can be used as a centerpiece, an ornamental planter, or simply as a decorative object, fitting equally well into a classic interior
