Description

18th-century engraving enhanced with watercolor - "March of the Army" Beautiful antique engraving on paper mounted under glass, depicting a military scene titled "March of the Army". Printed on paper in the 18th century and delicately enhanced with watercolor, it offers a lively depiction of an army on campaign with cavalry, infantry, and military convoys. The antique coloring highlights the numerous details of this historical composition, a hallmark of decorative and documentary prints from the Age of Enlightenment. Presented in an elegant gilded frame, this engraving is an interesting testament to 18th-century military iconography and a beautiful collector's item. Period: 18th century Technique: engraving on paper enhanced with watercolor Subject: military scene, army
