Description

CHEVOLLEAU, Jean born November 18, 1924, in La Roche-sur-Yon, Vendée, France; 1945-1950, École des Beaux-Arts in Paris, under Souverbie* and at the Académie de la Grande Chaumière*, under Friesz*; 1948-1960, taught in Paris; 1996, died on November 1 in La Roche-sur-Yon. Painter. A long-standing commitment to a particular technique: vivid splashes of color, dominated by blue, rendered in geometric forms and juxtaposed with bursts of yellow and red; light emerges from the lightening of tones. The figurative element is there, lost in the proliferation of patches and the shimmering of colors, further disrupted by the fact that a single motif is arbitrarily segmented into different colors, solely to serve the flickering effect. His rare portraits employ the same technique, but in a
