Description

An Art Deco lamp made around 1920 in the Muller Brothers' workshops in Lunéville. Its circular wrought-iron base is decorated with roses. The shaft consists of a slender stem that branches into three arms to support the lampshade. The glass shade has a marbled effect with shades of purple and pink. Signed on the outside of the lampshade: 'Muller Fres Lunéville'. Originally from Bitche, the Muller family settled in Meurthe-et-Moselle after 1870. The siblings, comprising nine brothers and one sister, trained in the glass trade. Eugène Muller (1883-1914), Désiré Muller (1877-1952) and Henri Muller (1868-1936) are the best-known members of this family. They were initially recruited by Émile Gallé (1846-1904), then founded their own workshop in 1897 in
