Description

A stunning gilded bronze sculpture depicting a dancer wearing buskins. The sculpture captures a frozen moment of movement, with the dancer appearing to be in motion, her long dress and flowing sleeves swirling around her. This work is often praised for its fluidity; it is one of the iconic sculptures of the Art Nouveau period. Our piece features perfect chiseling and magnificent original gilding. Stamp of the Susse foundry in Paris, signed "A. Leonard, Sculpteur," and foundry reference initial "M."
