Description

Large lacquer panel, Vietnamese work from the 1950s-60s. Figures rendered in bold lines move through a jungle from which temples emerge. The architectural elements are rendered in an eggshell finish. The signature is in Western style.These various elements are reminiscent of Hoang Ngoc's circle.Please note: the corners are chipped and worn--the edges are flaked--there is a visible chip in the lower center --signs of handling.Shipping: note that the format is rejected by the Post Office--a carrier is required!!!!!
