Description

A rare rolling side table with a decidedly modernist design by Robert Mallet-Stevens, a leading figure in French architecture and design during the interwar period. Crafted from chrome-plated metal tubing, it features two mirrored trays set within a structure of pure geometric lines, characteristic of the functionalist aesthetic championed by the designer. Mounted on casters, this piece combines elegance and functionality in an avant-garde spirit characteristic of the 1930s. The simplicity of its forms and the quality of its craftsmanship make it a remarkable example of French modernist furniture. Attribution: Robert Mallet-Stevens (1886-1945) Period: circa 1930 Materials: chrome-plated metal, mirrors Style: Modernist / Art Deco Condition: in good condition, with slight
