Description

This impressive Murano chandelier comes from a villa near Florence. It features a lantern-shaped internal structure--a rather rare design--with twisted columns and cantilevered flying buttresses. The 32-light chandelier is adorned with delicate pink flower buds.Excellent condition, with a few minor chips. At the Murano Museum, visitors can admire a more imposing version of this original chandelier, which also features the internal structure of a four-column lantern and arms ending in dolphin heads.The chandelier has been fully cleaned and restored, and its electrical system has been redone.High-definition photos showing numerous details can be sent to you upon request.
