Description

: This pair of sculpted legs, highly original and richly decorated, was carved from Italian white marble during the second half of the 20th century. Inspired by fragments of ancient Greek and Roman statues, these sculptures evoke the aesthetic of archaeological finds and museum collections dedicated to classical antiquity. The feet are rendered with great anatomical precision, faithfully reproducing the proportions and naturalism characteristic of ancient sculpture. Their fragmentary nature recalls the famous marble relics of the ancient world, transforming them into striking decorative objects with a strong architectural and artistic presence. Carved from high-quality Italian white marble, this pair features a magnificent surface and subtle natural veining that enhances the sculptural quality of the
