Description

Porcelain Centerpiece - Late 19th Century
Hand-painted porcelain with beautiful gilding. The centerpiece features a central floral design of hand-painted roses, framed by golden ribbon bows on the sides, and a garland of applied porcelain cherry blossoms running around the bowl. The base is adorned with two seated putti, each holding a golden drape, decorated with blue floral motifs. The piece is in very good overall condition for its age. The porcelain is intact, though there is a slight chip on one of the flowers. The gilding remains brilliant, and the colors of the flowers are fresh and vivid. German production from the late 19th century in the style of Meissen porcelain
