Description

Kriss hilt from the Lombok Islands in Indonesia. Late 19th century. Two men, one riding on the other's back, dressed in Western military attire--helmet, tunic, sleeves, and trousers made of cloth--perfectly identifiable; indeed, the Dutch landed in Lombok in 1674, followed by battles for total control of the island; they did not leave until 1942. An original metal band forms the base of this handle. We had it mounted by a professional mountmaker on an elegant bronze-patinated brass stem. Careful shipping worldwide. Free shipping
