Description

A spectacular pair of monumental marble sculptures depicting figures from Greek mythology, crafted with exceptional skill from Italian marble in the 1980s. Of impressive scale, the set combines classical elegance with the great tradition of European garden and architectural sculpture. One of the figures depicts a musician faun, a mythical creature half-man, half-goat, companion of Dionysus, traditionally associated with nature, music, celebration, and rural pleasures. The sculptor has successfully captured the faun's lively and expressive character through dynamic movement, finely carved details, and a joyful vitality. The sculpture facing him depicts a graceful female figure holding a Cornucopia, the legendary Horn of Plenty, a symbol of abundance, prosperity, fertility, and good fortune.

The flowing drapery, elegant posture, and symbolic attributes create a harmonious contrast with the faun's playful energy. Carved from high-quality Italian marble, these two sculptures demonstrate exceptional craftsmanship, with remarkable attention to anatomy, drapery, facial expressions, and ornamental details. Their monumental size and timeless iconography make them ideal centerpieces for French gardens, courtyards, property entrances, terraces, or large interior spaces. Combining mythology, symbolism, and the timeless beauty of classical sculpture, this impressive pair embodies the elegance and decorative richness of the Greco-Roman artistic tradition. Dimensions (each): Height: 225 cm Width: 60 cm Depth: 50 cm Condition: Very good condition. Slight signs of wear due to age and outdoor exposure. Beautifully preserved marble surfaces, with sculptural details of great finesse. Keywords: Greek mythology, faun sculpture, cornucopia
