124 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Bronze

Description

: This remarkable 19th-century bronze paperweight depicts a lion's head, a timeless symbol of strength, courage, authority, and protection. Finely crafted and sculpted, this piece captures with remarkable precision the powerful expression and majestic character of the king of beasts. The sculptor has carefully rendered the lion's flowing mane, expressive eyes, and noble features, creating a compact yet highly decorative object. The rich patina acquired over time enhances the depth of the modeling and highlights the quality of the bronze casting. Originally designed as a functional desk accessory, this paperweight is today just as elegant as a decorative object and will fit perfectly in a library, an office, a study, or a collection of antique bronzes and animal
