Description

An exceptional pair of bronze pedestals inspired by ancient Greco-Roman models discovered during archaeological excavations in Pompeii. Created in Naples in the 1950s, these elegant pedestals reflect the long Neapolitan tradition of reproducing and interpreting classical antiquities for collectors and prestigious interiors. Crafted in bronze with remarkable attention to detail, the pedestals feature forms and decorative elements inspired by ancient Roman prototypes. Their harmonious proportions and rich patina evoke the aesthetic of the archaeological treasures unearthed in Pompeii and Herculaneum, making them both decorative objects and a tribute to classical antiquity. With their imposing height and architectural presence, these pedestals are ideal for showcasing sculptures, urns, busts, or large
