Description

A pair of monumental Greco-Roman marble craters, resting on tripods with lion-paw-shaped feet. Pair of monumental Greco-Roman style craters, carved from soft marble and resting on imposing tripods with feet shaped like lion paws. Inspired by the decorative arts of Classical Antiquity, these magnificent sculptures combine architectural grandeur with the finesse of hand-carved detail. The body of the craters is richly adorned with classical motifs across its entire surface, demonstrating remarkable craftsmanship and great sculptural depth. At the center of each vase appears the striking head of Medusa, one of the most powerful and iconic symbols of ancient mythology, traditionally associated with protection and strength. The tripods, supported by lion-paw-shaped feet,
