Description

A pair of 19th-century oil paintings depicting views of Rome, beautifully executed in the tradition of the Grand Tour and Italian landscape painting. These evocative compositions capture the timeless beauty of the Eternal City, reflecting the fascination that Rome held for travelers, artists, and collectors throughout the 19th century. Painted in oil with great attention to architectural detail and atmospheric effects, these works present elegant Roman scenes, rich in historical character and undeniably visually appealing. Both paintings retain their original water-gilded frames, which enhance their authenticity and highlight the warm tones of the compositions. The combination of the historical subject matter, the original gilded frames, and the decorative quality makes this pair an excellent
