Description

This superb pediment mirror in gilded wood and stucco, crafted in the Louis XV style, features a frame of great finesse adorned with an elegant frieze of pearls and floral garlands running around the entire perimeter. The lower section is distinguished by large stylized acanthus leaves, generously spread across the sides, whose deep modeling and warm gilding highlight the decorative richness of the whole. The pediment, a true centerpiece, is organized around a majestic rocaille shell with asymmetrical volutes, emblematic of the Louis XV taste for fluid and natural forms. This shell is accompanied by delicate, finely carved floral garlands, which lend a touch of lightness and grace to the composition. In the lower section, each side is adorned with a large stylized acanthus leaf. The whole exudes a
