Description

An exceptional floor lamp from the early 20th century, originally from Belgium and crafted around 1910 in the purest Art Nouveau style. Its slender, sculptural base is made of hammered copper, adorned with richly chiseled botanical motifs: stylized leaves, berries, and insects wind harmoniously around its tapered form. The artisanal craftsmanship reveals the influence of nature so characteristic of the era, uniting art and functionality in a single piece. The floor lamp is topped with a frosted glass shade of remarkable quality, molded with sinuous reliefs that diffuse a soft, warm light. The interplay between the dark patinated copper and the luminous glass creates a poetic contrast, evoking the romantic interiors of the Belle Époque. A rare and evocative piece, it embodies the art and craftsmanship of the Belle
