Description

Rare four-legged "Massue" stool by Charlotte Perriand, France, 1970s. Usually made with three legs, this unique version was crafted on commission for a client. Its thick, circular seat rests on four slightly flared cylindrical legs, giving the stool great stability. The wood grain, highlighted by its original honey-colored patina, gives it a warm and natural character.

Understated and sturdy, this stool exemplifies the utilitarian and authentic aesthetic of mountain furniture and the modernist interiors of the era. It shows signs of use and a beautiful patina of age. Provenance: Méribel, circa 1970 Bibliography:- Jacques Barsac, Charlotte Perriand: Un art d'habiter, Norma Éditions, Paris, 2005. A similar model is shown on pp. 192, 460.
