Description

An elegant Neapolitan Louis XV chest of drawers, dating from the mid-18th century, crafted from fine bois de violette and embellished with exquisite inlay featuring geometric motifs and rosettes. The perfectly executed rosettes adorn both the sides and the two large front drawers, highlighting the mastery of the Neapolitan cabinetmakers of the time. The structure features the typical undulating and slender lines of the Louis XV style, with curved profiles and slightly arched legs, enhanced by small gilded bronze fittings on the feet and handles. The surfaces, crafted from various fine woods, create a refined interplay of color contrasts. The piece is crowned by a magnificent, uniquely shaped top in Giallo di Siena marble, which emphasizes the piece's prestige and
