Description

Important charcoal drawing on paper - Portrait of a Woman with a Glass - Signed and dated 1947 Large charcoal drawing with highlights on tinted paper depicting a woman of character, shown from the waist up, holding a glass in her hand. The expressive rendering of the face, the vigor of the lines, and the interplay of shadows lend this work a remarkable presence. The work is signed and dated "Brown?" (to be deciphered) and bears the date 1947. It is presented in its original period molded wooden frame. This portrait, executed with great skill, reflects a sensibility close to postwar Expressionism. The composition highlights the model's psychological strength and the artist's graphic skill. Condition: some signs of age and a visible tear in the paper, which do not detract from the overall decorative
