Description

An enameled earthenware kerosene lamp with a floral relief design, mounted on an elegant gilded bronze base in the Art Nouveau style. The reservoir features a polychrome design of white flowers and green foliage on a crackled background, accented by a brass frame. The lamp is topped with a satin-finished glass globe engraved with a geometric pattern. Originally a kerosene lamp, it has been converted to electricity for contemporary decorative use while retaining its original charm. The burner knob is still present. A beautiful decorative piece, ideal for a classic, Art Nouveau, or country-style home. Period: late 19th - early 20th century. Dimensions: Total height: 50 cm. Good overall condition. Signs of wear and light traces of age consistent with its age.
